Too Far to Walk — Old Santa Fe Trading Co

Whats also interesting, and pure speculation, is Forrest's comment that anything over 10 miles is too far too walk. Was that his way of telling us that 5 miles in and 5 miles back out is as far as one needs to go. I just find it strange that my father in law walks 12 yet I would bet Forrest was in better shape

How Far Is Too Far Too Walk? | Treasure Tracer

That is correct 90 feet is the distance from home plate to first base, but "first base" technically then is where too far to walk is as it is not far but when you receive a walk you have to run or jog down to first base, it is un-sportsman-like to literally walk a walk. Lets test this with my poem contiguous theme.

Forrest Fenn Treasure

Although not mentioned in Forrest Fenn's first chapter, Too Far to Walk by John Hersey is a book which is sometimes read during college.

Remember those 'subtle clues' Forrest talked about; could 'important literature' have been one? Too Far to Walk actually gives a few different interpretations for 'what is too far.'

The Thrill of the Chase and Too Far to Walk - Mysterious ...

Probably somewhere between 2 and 20 miles. 5 or 10 miles is probably a pretty good estimate. It's not that far, but it's too far to walk. But, not only that, imagine a location on the side of a river. Now, imagine a location on the opposite bank.

It does seem to fit Forrest, as he claims to have walked over 90 miles in one day, and makes a point of how he's still good at walking even with his age and battle wear. Perhaps this just means, then, that the distance needed to travel down the canyon for the second stanza to work is zero, or that the home of Brown is immediately adjacent.

A possible resolution to the paradox in line 7 ...

The title "Too Far to Walk" is described as the 10+ miles of winding Madison River above baker's hole. THIS IS PROBABLY THE BEST CONFIRMATION OF ANY CLUE EVER MENTIONED BY FENN. If you have Fenn's correct TFTW then you also know WWWW and hoB is, because they are contiguous. Put in, below the home of Brown.

The Legend of Forrest Fenn

Remember, Forrest once said that "to an ant, a mud puddle is like an ocean." Many folks believe the distance is 10 miles because of his words in the Preface of Too Far to Walk: "I put a small rubber dinghy in the Madison River a few miles from West Yellowstone, Montana, and fished downstream to Baker's Hole.

Forrest Fenn's Magnum Opus

I am not sure how far at each point in Forrest's life became "too far to walk" but I am sure that the distance is not what is important say 90 miles or 45, or even 10...Nope, TFTW in his POEM, has nothing to do with distance, that changes with age, and times, no it has everything to do with how you get transported, "Trains Planes and Auto's" movie from 1987, even bicycles, 20 miles to get a bath in 40's?

Too Far To Walk... - Thrill Of The Chase

This pic made me think of the twins in Forrest Fenn's book , Too Far To Walk, which made me wonder about a couple more things which may remain mysteries. Ah, well. Back to the Chase—Dal's blog is in overdrive lately since he officially dropped out of the hunt for Fenn's treasure. Lots to keep up with over there.
